“ To the woman I share a love for sweets with, being a night owl, and that same sentimental heart. So thankful for the stories you shared and the love you gave. You loved learning new recipes, staying up to watch us “party”, having lunch with your classmates, talking on the phone with friends, listening to country music, getting the latest scoop, and anything that was blue. Now, I can see you walking hand in hand again, in the floors of heaven, with the person your heart was made for; picturing you and Poppop together again brings me so much happiness and peace 💙🦋
