I have tried to think of words to comfort the pain you feel. There are none...we all know this. Please know my prayers and heart are with you. I share your pain... I pray God will lead you through to the comfort that time will bring. Even as I write these words i know how hollow they sound. I love you and miss you all. I pray for peace and strength for all of you in the coming days, weeks and months. God bless you all. It's only in Him we can walk through such pain.
