“ Mr Hignutt bought his horse feed from my store. I always asked him how he was and his response was usually “ Onry and ungly” always made laugh. Many times he would bring us donuts or give us money for donuts or lunch. He was so genuine. I looked forward to seeing him every few weeks. One of my favorite people. He will definitely be missed.

“ From the very beginning, Wilson reminded me of the type of horsemen my father told me to look for and learn from ... my dad used to say "Girl, you don't need to pay attention to the ones doing all the talking ... listen and learn from the ones that don't often speak because when they do it's pure wisdom. Wilson loved horses and that is the place where we connected. We traded stories ... helped each other (and my late husband, Mick before we lost him) and valued our friendship. He always had a saying that somehow made you feel better ... my personal favorite was "We spend all our lives trying to keep the horses we love from committing suicide". He always said it when a horse had a particularly bizarre injury or was in an unexplainable predicament, and God help me it always made me smile. Rest in Peace, my friend. Catch that yellow horse and ride the wind.

“ Wilson and my dad Adam were best buddies and I know that they will be chatting it up as sure as I know my father was waiting at the gates of heaven saying “ I’ve been waiting to talk with you Will baby”! Wilson was a kind man and will be missed by his family and friends that he shared his wonderful stories and experiences with.
